We have been waiting for some time for Mr. Webb to answer the few short interrogatories asked by an honest car conductor of Mobile, and we are greatly disappointed. He says Timberlake is not a "workingman." A car conductor or any other man that works sixteen hours a day would not agree with him. We neglected in our reply to notice that Mr. Webb says: "The workingman can not afford for himself the best dollar which will buy the best food and clothing." We opine that he will risk it, even at the assumption which Mr. Webb denies that we have a right to speak for the workingmen. How silly it is for Mr. Webb to argue, after he kindly allows us to use the word workingman in the sense that Webster does, and common usage and in the same sense used by the republican party, that we are "evidently gravitating with accelerated velocity in that direction and will soon be, if not now, in the republican camp body, boots and breeches." Mark the reasoning, because we use the word in that way we are becoming a republican. Who ever read such transcendent force of logical reasoning as that; and that is about as good logic as Mr. Webb uses. Now we honestly think he used it to get in that "accelerated velocity," for, like the doctor was on fits, Mr. Webb is hell on adjectives. It would be amusing to follow his letter all the way through just in this way, but while it might amuse it would not be instructive. Mr. Webb's fondness for adjectives leads him occasionally into tautology. He talks about a "sooty, fuliginous hell. He had just as well have said a sooty, sooty hell, for fuliginous means sooty. But we desist; his arguments(?) are before you. Hereafter will Mr. Webb please spare us gush and slush, begin with his subject and confine himself to arguments, for otherwise the public will be plunged into interminable trivialities and Mr. Webb will have argued everything else except the free silver question.

THAT QUESTION HIDDEN AWAY. Becoming entangled in Mr. Webb's interminable intricacies of irrelevant matter, and lost in his elaborate etymological dissertation, we almost overlooked the wee paragraph at the close of his article that had some real bearing on the subject matter under discussion. And we her of others not to become wearied as we did in trying to come at his argu-

AUSTIN STATESMAN. have not time for the whole of it, skip down below his "potry," where you will ment, but to keep on reading. Or, if you eatch a glimpse of silver.

But, to his closing question, Mr. Webb, did you fairly quote Mr. Carlisle? Were manufactured goods the only articles he said would be "doubled in value?" What about all the necessaries of life our farmers do not raise, but that they, as well as all wage carners, consume? Won't they be "doubled" in price, too? There are also a vast number of things our farmers consume that do not go through any strictly speaking manufacturing process but would be "doubled in value." But, take Mr. Webb at his own statement. While it is true that wages are an immense factor in estimating the cost of manufactured goods, yet they are by no means the only factor. All machinery to be used in operating will cost twice as much; all the raw products to be utilized (and especially those from abroad) will cost twice as much and then the manufacturers and middlemen would have their profits cut half in two, they must double up also. And so the items of increased expense go on

But as to wages alone. Mr. Webb has stated to his own satisfaction that they will at once increase and sound money men freely admit that in time they will appreciate to some extent. But that is not the question, though Mr. Webb seems very willing to rest his case at that point. The question is will it be any real increase in the value of wages? The history of our own nation (and we will not insult these ultra Americans by citing anything from abroad) in times of flat money and inflalation, shows that while wages may at best increase in time to 50 per cent, that products go up almost instantly over 100 per cent. Is there much gain for the wage earners and 'workingmen" in this process? If there is any, will Mr. Webb please point it out? Don't give us your theory or opinion, Mr. Webb, but as you are so excellent on figures prove something by them and by facts.

NEW YORK NATIONAL DEMO-CRATS RATIFY PALMER AND BUCKNER.

'WE ARE NOT 50-CENT DEMOGRATS'

Was Remarked By Ex-Governor Flower. John Boyd Thatcher Asked to Withdraw From the New York Demoeratic Ticket by Tammany,

New York, Sept. 22.—"This is one of the peculiar meetings of a peculiar campaign," said a man entering the big auditorium in the Madison Square Gar den tonight to attend the Palmer and Buckner ratification meeting, and be spoke the truth, for while the demoeratic state committee was busy two blocks away, straightening a tangle it an alleged endeavor to aid the Bryan campaign, men who had gone dry in the same party argued against Bryan, Has the managers of this meeting the power o make everything connected with it a variance with the occasion of the noti fication of Wm. J. Bryan it could not have been more successful. The there mometer marked it cool in distinction to the fever heat at the Bryan meeting. The audience, who filled an edifice that, partitioned off as it was, accommodated fully 6000 people, remained in their sents until the end of the session; the platform was filled with representative men of the old democratic party; faces stage of President Cleveland, Samuel J. Tilden, Messrs, Palmer and Buckner, the candidates of the party holding the convention; Andrew Jackson and Thomas Jefferson. In the center of the stage decoration was a large picture of the national democratic party emblem in this state, a full rigged ship. A band furnished the usual plea for enthusiasm by playing national airs, the audience heartily applauding each effort.

The presence upon the stage of men like Roswell P. Flower, W. D. Bynum, Charles B. Fairchild, E. E. Anderson, Robert Greer Monroe, in addition to the speakers, gave a dignity to the affair speakers, gave a dignity to the affair that was carried out in the audience. At irst it was quiet, but the brief remarks of Chairman Flower seemed to awaken those present, for in a moment they were shouting their approval of the statement "we are not 50-cent democrats." The other pointed, but brief, remarks of the ex-governor were greatly applianded.

The meeting was called to order by Robert E. Windemand, chairman of the Syracuse convention's state committee, who introduced ex-Governor Flower as he presiding officer.

Mr. Flower waited until the bearty reeption accorded him had subsided, when We favor a tariff for revenue not tolerate repudiation of public law or only. We declare that the government should not engage in the banking business. We are opposed to fiat money.

We endorse the administration of President Cleveland. Our principles point the way to stability, not doubtful experiment; to confidence in business, not

We can not afford to have the question raised every four years whether the nation will pay or repudiate its debts in whole or in part. (Tremendous applaner and Buckner, came in and ascended the platform. The sight of the two grizzled veterans, remnants of the armies of the north and south, ascending the platform created the greatest entinusiasm and there was a hearty burst of applanse that lasted for some minutes, the audience standing on their feet. The band added to the tunult by playing alternately "America" and "Dixie."

We can not afford to have the question raised every four years whether the nation will pay or repudiate its debts in whole or in part. (Tremendous applanes). "This is the year, my fellow citizens of Holmes county, to close that question forever. It can be so determined this year that it will never present uself again in your lifetime. A sweeping and impressive majority against the minutes, the audience standing on their fields. (A voice: 'I know we will do it all right.') When Gen, Palmer was introduced be was received with tremendous applause. He spoke at some length.

THATCHER ASKED TO QUIT.

Tammany Leader Sheehan Sends a Tel-egram to That Effect.

New York, Sept. 22.—Following is the text of a telegram sent to John Boyd Thatcher by J. C. Sheehan, Tammany leader, today:
"When the friends of the platform adopted at Buffalo stood in doubt as to the propriety of nominating a gentleman who had previously occupied a position adverse to the leading tenets of the party as declared in national convention, the convention was repeatedly assured by your representatives that you would stand fairly and squarely upon the Buffalo platform, which most emphatically endorsed the one adopted at Chicago.

"In view of your letter to the public feel sure that you are not aware of the pledges then made in your name, and that once in possession of the facts you will take the required measures to pre-vent the stultification of those who press d your claims on the convention.
(Signed) "JOHN C. SHEEHAN." This telegram was sent after a conference at Tammany Hall this morning.

THREE BIG DELEGATIONS. Canton, O., Sept. 22.—Three organized lelegations had audiences with Maj McKinley today, The first arrived over the Valley road at 12 o'clock. They were from Holmes county, Ohio, one of the strongest democratic sections in the country. A local committee took charge of the party and marched it to the Mc-Kinley residence.

At 2 o'clock a special train of twelve coaches on the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis road brought a delegation from Jamestown, N. Y., rep resenting Chautauqua and Cattaraugus counties. At the McKinley home congratulatory address was made by A. ". Dean of Jamestown.

A special train of twelve coaches arrived shortly after 4 o'clock this evening, bringing republican clubs and citizens from Elkhart and northern Indiana, The Elkhart band led the parade to the Mc-Kinley home, where Attorney James S. Dodge made a congratulatory address and presented Maj, McKinley a bust of

Maj, McKinley addressed the Helme ounty delegation as follows;
"My Fellow Citizens—It gives creat pleasure to welcome to my home he citizens of Holmes county. I recal with special satisfaction that in 1890, just six years ago, by an act of the legislature, your county became a part of the district in which I was a candidate on the republican ticket. I remember the campaign I made in your county with special pleasure and grati-fication. I recall your warm welcome and I recall your words of good cheer; I recall that encouragement which gave me at every turn, and although an overwhelmingly democratic county, as you have always been, it was pleasant to me, in studying the returns, to observe that by your aid and that of sof your democratic neighbors the

The never was so high before or since. We had only insteamed the protective was abroad in the land. The campaign was one of prediction and prevarieation; the tin peddler was abroad in Holmes county. His narvelous tales startled the community. (Laughter and applause and beating of tin buckets.)

We had only just enacted the protective law of 1890 and we had determined in that law that we would establish in the United States factories that would make the plate for the United States and our own people (applicate) and we have done it, (Great cheering.) And the people of Holmes county will recall today that not a single prediction made in 1890 re specting the price of tin has been ful-filled.

"Free silver is all the cry now. Free silver is going to cure all our (Laughter.) My fellow citizens, doesn't make any difference how free silver is coined in the United States, you will not get a dollar of it unless you give something for it. (Applause and cries of 'that's right.) If we had mints in every state in the Union and in every county of every state and the silver of the world was brought to those mints the world was brought to those mints, as is proposed by our political opponents, silver wouldn't be any freer for you than it is now. (Tremendous cheering and cries of 'you are right.') Then, besides, in this country we don't propose to have a dishonest dollar. We propose to have the best of everything that is going. We have the best country and the best men and we propose to have the best money. (A voice: 'That's what we are going to da'). There is any have the best money. (A voice: 'That's what we are going to do.') There is an what we are going to do.) There is another thing, my fellow citizens, that the ratify the nominations and the platform of the national democratic convention held at Indianapolis. We are democratic and not populists, we are in favor of liberty regulated by law; we are not revolutionists. We believe in dollars of full intensity value measured by the said. this year that no party hereafter car alarm the business world and shake pub lic confidence by a proposition to scale our debts, either public or private. (Ap plause and cries of 'you are right.')

(A voice; 'I know we will do it all right.') Not a bare majority, but a mighty one, placing the party of national honor in control of every branch will do it. Anything short of that will leave the question open to further dispute. the question open to further dispute. Let us once for all settle it that this government is honest and that neither the seeds of repudiation nor lawlessness can find root in your soil or live beneath your roof. (Tremendous cheering.) In this contest all the banner we want the American flag. That represents all our aims, all our policies, all our pur-poses. It is the banner of every patriot; is, thank God, today the flag of every citizen of your common country. No nation ever triumphed over it. (Ap-plause.) It never was degraded or de-feated and will not now be, when more patriotic men are guarding it than ever before in our history." (Applause and three cheers for McKinley.) (Applause and

MAKES A SENSATIONAL STATEMENT

Before Official Notification He Wishes It Understood He Does Not Approve Bryan's Policy-Conferred With Hill.

Albany, N. Y., Sept. 20.-By making in official statement late tonight of his position on the financial question and by declaring in that statement that he is unalterably for gold, John Boyd Thatcher, democratic nominee for governor, creates one of the most curious situations ever known in politics in this date. The statement was issued after a long conference with Senator Hill, Elliett G. Danforth, who was at Sena-tor Hill's house, and Caddy Herrick, the democratic leader in this county. It was addressed to the chairman of the state committee. It is believed that this course is approved by Mr. Hill, Mr. W. F. Sheehan and others not in at-W. F. Sheehan and others not in attendance at the state convention, and is intended to try and fend off any nomination of a second democratic ticket at Brooklyn and enforce a fight at the polis upon state issues, leaving the national ticket entirely out of the question. Mr. Thatcher declares that he is against free silver, but will vote for Bryan and Sewall for regularity. The letter says: "I am informed that the democratic party in this state, in convention assembled at Buffalo, on September 17, 1806, did the honor of naming me as its candidate for the high office of governor, I now learn that the state committee is

I now learn that the state committee is to meet on Tuesday for the purpose of to meet on Tuesday for the purpose of appointing a committee to officially notify me of that fact. It has seemed to me due to your committee that before it takes that step I should make a statement. I can not ask for the confidence and support of the people of the state without frankly declaring my position on the financial issue now figitating the public. I stand today where I stood in the month of June in the presence. in the month of June, in the presence of the convention of the state democracy. I have not changed an iota in my belief I have not changed in tota in my belief nor deviated a step in my course. The commercial honor of this country is pledged to the world and the world knows that the nation will maintain its honor. I took part in the state conver-tion which sent delegates to represent the party in national convention at Chi-cago. Those delegates, by participat-ing, acquiesced in the action of the na-tional convention by presenting candi-dates for the offices of president and vice president of the United States. The state convention of the democratic party as ratified the nomination of these can-idates. I have learned from my father, didates. I have learned from my father, and, in turn, have endeavored to teach, that the democratic party is a vehicle to carry the will of the people into effect. Such a version is constructed with the democratic party is a vehicle to carry the will of the people into effect. Such a version is constructed with the control and manage that traffic. It took an increased, and in many instances are not and then to perform absolutely as mercasenable, sum from the saloon difficulty, but is easily destroyed. Failure now and then to perform absolutely satisfactory service will not justify the utter destruction of the vehicle. It was constructed to bear, not one burden, but many and various burdens. When the finance is finally disposed of, the people will still employ the democratic party to support their purposes and carry them into effect. When they do thus employ that party I, for one, do not want it to be shattered and dismembered, but united, strong and efficient. I will east if to be shattered and dismembered, but united, strong and efficient. I will east my vote for William Jenaings Bryan and Arthur Sewall, in due and regular form nominated. I can not be on the same financial policy, bowever, In nominating me I must assume that the convention was not unaware of my financial views, as expressed.

falo, and is expressed at every gathering falo, and is expressed at every gathering of citizens where public questions are discussed, that the people are dissatisfied with the present condition of public affairs and I am in sympathy with every movement, not revolutionary in character, which seeks to take burdens off the shoulders of the masses and to restore prosperity and peace to all the people. When the republican legislature adjourned in May, 1896, it left a record behind it which every democratic and inhind it which every democratic and in-dependent voter in the state believed would be at issue before the people this fall. No question purely national should fall. No question purely national should be permitted to divert our people in this state from pronouncing, by a change of administration, a verdiet against their record. Included in the record of the republican legislature was a shameful disregard for the interests of the municipalities of the state. Sixty-five per cent of our population dwells in cities, and they posses 75 per cent of the wealth of the state. As I observed closely the work of the legislature and was myself an official victim of some of its legislation, I am, perhaps, entitled to be heard as to its record. It was guilty of a grievous sin of omission. The new constitution requires that uniform charters shall be granted to cities of the same class. A commissioner reported early in the sescommissioner reported early in the session proper forms of charters for cities of second and third classes. The republican legislature made no further attempts to comply with the constitutional direc-tions, but, on the contrary, proceeded to tions, but, on the contrary, proceeded to amend charters already existing by taking power from officials in democratic cities and clothing with unusual power the officials in republican cities.

"The republican members in the legislature, by force of arms and against the protests of honorable members of their own party, passed a bill taking from the democratic mayor of Albany all power over the police of that city. Withpower over the police of that city. With-out power to control the police the mayor is powerless to enforce order and to se-cure peace for his city. Similar legis-lation was proposed for other democratic cities, but was postponed until the coming year. "The republican legislature, in order to accomplish its purposes, violated par-liamentary rules, ruthlessly rode over the sacred rights of members, employed the sacred rights of incinors, employed physical force to intimidate opposition, closed the doors of the assembly to the public and conducted itself with an ut-ter abandonment of decency and prin-ciple A republican legislature spent the people's money as if it were water, and then announced that it would wring from the liquor traffic sufficient money to pay it back.

Any of these-sins would be conspicuous and flagrant in a time of less na-tional excitement, but one sin of commission calls for immediate popular con-demnation. Under the guise of promot-ing public welfare, the republican legis-lature revolutionized the method of dea! an unreasonable, sum from the saloon keepers, and instead of applying that sum to defraying the expenses of local government it distributed it throughout the state.

Closing he says: "But when this great convention was not unaware of my financial views, as expressed in my public utterances, and that it was induced to accord me that distinguished honor in view of the fact that under the constitution a governor of this state has no official connection whatever with matters pertaining to the national currency, "It was apparent at Chicago and Buf-
